

Credit Risk Executive

International Investment Bank
Project Finance/Energy/Infrastructure Focus
$160-180K Package + Bonus

This international investment bank is a specialist in their field, a strategic partner to a global network of clients. The local business originates transactions domestically and in the region, and are now looking to recruit an experienced credit risk professional with expertise in Project Finance, Energy and Infrastructure.

Working as part of a small team you will work closely with both the origination team and the firm's clients on qualitative and quantitative credit risk analysis of structured risk transactions with a focus on Energy and Infrastructure, as well as business emanating from other corporates located in Australia. You will also monitor existing transactions, review and audit cash flow models and provide independent credit appraisals on the bank's other due diligence exercises/transactions. The role will require liaison with various stakeholders, including clients, front office staff, project managers and legal consultants. You will also be charged with contribution towards the continuing improvement of the risk infrastructure through systems and process development.

With core analytical competencies, you will have a background within the credit risk environment of a major financial institution focusing on Project Finance, Energy and Infrastructure. You will be a graduate with a business/accounting/finance related degree with a solid academic background. You will enjoy working as part of a team, have a collaborative and flexible approach and will be adept at stakeholder management with the communication skills to influence and liaise effectively.
